Strehlitz.

Warsaw.—Unconfirmed reports from Warsaw early Friday say that Adolf Korwin, former Polish plebiscite commissioner in upper Silesia, who has proclaimed himself leader of the Polish insurgents in that territory, has been arrested by the inter-allied plebiscite commission, together with his entire staff.

Revolt in Acute Stage.

Previous dispatches had reported the insurrectionary movement in upper Silesia as continuing to spread and to have reached an acute stage. The Polish government is considering ways and means to prevent assistance from being sent the insurgents from Poland, and with this in view it was announced the Polish frontier bordering upon Silesia had been closed, as it was reported that various Polish organizations were making preparations to send aid to the Polish workers who had struck as a protest against the rumors that a large part of industrial Silesia would be awarded to Germany.

Watchful Waiting.

In general the government has adopted a watchful waiting attitude with reference to the insurrection. The council of ministers, it is announced, is determined not to take or sanction any action which might be taken as an attempted interference with the inter-allied commission's plans.

Action by the national labor party in an attempt to secure volunteers to go to the aid of their fellow workmen in upper Silesia has been put down by the government.

The Polish press generally sympathizes with the insurrectionary movement.

POLISH INSURGENTS MAKE FURTHER ADVANCE

Oppeln.—Polish insurgent forces entered Gross Strehlitz, in central upper Silesia, 20 miles southeast of here, at 10 o'clock Thursday night. The assault, led by the troops of one division in the fighting force given are given as: one French soldier killed and two wounded, and several Italians wounded.

The Poles agreed to permit the entire and local troops in Gross Strehlitz to remain there in their barracks. An inter-allied representative was expected here today to negotiate with the insurgents.

Revolt Area Spreads.

The revolt area is reported to be extending and to have reached nearly to this city. The insurgents are declared to be forcibly recruiting males, including Germans, between 18 and 45 years old, in the vicinity of Eichmann and Schoppinitz.

Two hundred Italian soldiers commanded by Col. Bondi, of the British army, evacuated Gross Strehlitz. The Poles reported in possession of the entire eastern section of Silesia as far north as Rosenberg.

CHANGE IN WORKERS' COMPENSATION LAWS IS FORESHADOWED

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Madison.—A change in the workers' compensation laws at the state was foreshadowed by the action of the lower house in recommending by a unanimous vote, the proposal of Assemblyman Sachtler's bill increasing the maximum weekly compensation from $14.42 to $15.00.

Jud. M. Wilcox, who appeared for the bill in behalf of the Industrial commission, stated that Wisconsin had not kept pace with other states of regard to compensation for loss of time occasioned by injuries. The bill also strikes out the provision whereby compensation for permanent impairments is limited to $75.00, makes the maximum amount that may be granted the same as for a year. The present indemnity is based upon a maximum weekly wage of $22.50. The proposed law would raise that to $25.00.

PLAN FOR U. S. TO MILL WHEAT OF CANADA OFFERED

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Minneapolis, Minn.—Wheat producers, farm organizations, county agents, University of Minnesota authorities, and business men throughout the northwest have been requested to give consideration to a proposal for the milling of Canadian wheat in bond by United States mills by James Wood Bell, vice-president of a wheat flour milling company.

Mr. Bell says that the price paid to the producer for his wheat and the price paid by the consumer for his flour will be determined largely by the treatment of Canadian wheat. The proposal is that United States mills be permitted to import from Canada the amount of wheat required to meet the needs of the market. The construction force of the Canadian wheat will be limited to 100 pounds per bushel, and the amount of wheat to be imported will be determined by the amount of wheat produced in Canada.

The extension of the Edgerton concrete highway from Schumacher's corner to Indian Ford was started by Rock county Thursday afternoon. The camp has been located near the corner where the pavement has last year ended.

There are 40 men working at the Edgerton end of the highway and on Friday morning poured about 125 feet of concrete.

Under the arrangement agreed upon during the last meeting of the county board, the county highway commission and the commissioners of the Edgerton south bridge, Edgerton will build the stretch to Indian Ford this summer. There is pending action to start road construction from Edgerton south bridge to Indian Ford to form a connecting link to complete the road when the new bridge is placed across the river.

No decision has been made as yet whether the last stretch south from Edgerton will be built by contract or by day labor.

How Civil War Veteran Saved Life of Comrade

Last Saturday William H. Chesbrough, 76, president of the Chesbrough-Moss wholesale grocery company of Detroit, yielded up a pint of blood to save the life of his Civil war comrade and friend, more than half a century, Samuel Clarke Burnham, clerk of the Janesville board of education. The story was told in the Gazette at the time the transfusion operation took place at the Burnham home, 804 Myatt street. The patient has been improving slowly since. In the smaller picture, Mr. Chesbrough is seen. The physicians have inserted a hollow needle in a close vein. A bag opens and closes, his right hand, the previous life-saving fluid flows through a rubber tube into a white receptacle. The attendant is stirring the blood to keep it from thickening.

70-BLOCK PAVING PROGRAM PLANNED FOR NEXT 2 YEARS

COMMITTEE PROPOSES TO PAVE WASHINGTON ST.
AND MILTON AVE.

TAKE ACTION SOON

Council Will Listen to Citizens' Suggestions for Coming Improvements.

A program calling for approximately five miles of paving here during 1921 and 1922 was proposed by the highway committee at an adjourned regular meeting of the new city council Thursday evening. It was decided to let the citizens know of the 70-block program and listen to their suggestions as to what changes should be made to it. The council will then be able to act on the matter at later meeting, possibly next week.

Chief among the streets which it is hoped to pave during the next two years are: North Washington street, from Mineral Point avenue to the city limits, a part of the Madison trunk line highway; Milton avenue, from East to St. Mary's portion of the trunk line highway to Milton and Fort Atkinson; Milwaukee avenue, from East to Ringold; Fremont from Racine to Sherman avenue; Sherman, gravel offered.

A petition was received from residents on Hickory street for paving of five blocks, from Glen street to Lenton avenue. At the same time an offer was made by the Janesville Sand & Gravel company to furnish and deliver free all sand and gravel necessary for building a one-course reinforced concrete paved road on the section of Hickory street. The latter offer was accepted and turned over to the board of public works and Hickory street was included in the proposed program for 1921-'22.

The 70-block program suggested, which included 40 intersections to be paid for by the city-at-large, follows:

First Ward

Wall street—Academy to River, 4 blocks.

North Washington street—Mineral Point avenue to Lenton—1 mile.

North High street—Milwaukee to railroad tracks, 2 blocks.

Second Ward

Milton avenue—East to St. Mary's, 5 blocks.

Hickory street—Glen to Benton avenue, 5 blocks.

Glen street—Hickory to Bluff, 1 block.

Fourth avenue—Bluff to Main, 1 block.

Sherman avenue—Milwaukee to Prairie, 2 blocks.

Prairie, 1 block—Richardson to Prairie, 1 block.

Benton avenue—Milwaukee to Prairie, 2 blocks.

North First street—Bluff to East, 3 blocks.

Third Ward

Milwaukee avenue—East to Ringold, 6 blocks.

Clarence street—Milwaukee avenue to Court, 1 block.

Third street—Milwaukee to Second, 2 blocks.

Wisconsin street—Milwaukee to Second, 3 blocks.

Fourth Ward

South River street—Oak to Western avenue, 1 block.

Western avenue—River to Franklin, 3 blocks.

Housant street—Franklin to Five Points, 5 blocks.

Ninth Ward

Logan street—Forest Park boulevard to Racine, 2 blocks.

Racine street—Logan to Fremont, 2 blocks.

Seventh Ward

Fremont street—Racine to Sherman avenue, 5 blocks.

Clark—Blackhawk to Fremont, 1 block.

Blackhawk—Racine to Clark, 1 block.

Douglas—Fremont to Randall, 1 block.

McKey boulevard—Jackson street bridge to Eastern avenue, 1 block.

Eastern avenue—McKey to Industrial avenue, 1 block.

The Postwick Realty company's withdrawal of its protest against paving in the Seventh ward was read and Ald. J. J. Dulin recommended that no attention be paid to the other petitions against paving.

"The people who don't even live there," he said, "so they don't have to wade through the mud. But all of the people asking for paving do live there and have had to put up with conditions."

Elks' Airplane Here Over Night

Boosting for the Elks' pageant and Mardi Gras to be held in Chippewa Falls, June 28 to July 4, a purple and white airplane piloted by W. A. Hallgren, former lieutenant, was in Janesville, Thursday night, and Friday morning. The plane circled over the city distributing literature before departing for Beloit, to go from there to La Crosse and Winona.

Accompanying Pilot Hallgren was F. W. Hinck. They started out April 1 to tour five states, calling upon Elks' clubs and officials in scores of cities. So far they have visited Minnesota, Wisconsin and Northern Illinois.

The plane came here from Waukegan, Ill., late Saturday afternoon and landed in a field near the fair grounds here. It was kept all night, then left from Waukegan at 6:30 minutes, Hallgren said.

H. S. Sloan, Milwaukee attorney, formerly of Janesville, is in charge of the big celebration in Chippewa Falls. The celebration will be featured by the giving away of the $200,000 Hotel Northern there. There will be a week of auto and horse shows, ball games, fireworks, military maneuvers, band contests and vaudeville.

Janvin, several aldermen and the city engineer, relative to the Beloit council's demand that an extensive stretch of road-bed be held there. MUSICAL LEADERS

MUSIC MEETING COMES TO CLOSE

Delegates Pleased With Convention in Janesville and Splendid Concerts.

The eleventh annual convention of the Wisconsin Music Teachers' Association terminated Thursday afternoon at the Wisconsin School for the Blind where, after being entertained by the pupils during the morning and in the evening, the final business session was rushed through by President Winkler so that delegates would be able to make their trains. Officials of the organization expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the reception accorded them, here and before closing passed a resolution thanking the various organizations and individuals in Janesville who participated in making their three day convention here a success.

Best Musical Programs.

It was stated that never before had the delegates in any of the cities heard such a fine program as was presented by members of the MacDowell club. They have met in nine different cities since 1910 where concerts were given by local talent but none to compare with the Janesville organization had ever been given.

An acknowledgment of the success of his administration was the reelection of Theodore Winkler, supervisor of music in the Sheboygan schools, as president, an honor conferred on only two former presidents. President Winkler charmed all with his informal manner of conducting the sessions. The only change made in the officers was the election of Prof. J. E. Meyer, Milwaukee, as secretary to succeed Miss Lillian Watts, Racine. Prof. Meyer is head of the Meyer school of music, Milwaukee, and recognized as one of Wisconsin's leading artists.

Waukesha Next.

The selection of Waukesha as the meeting place for the teachers' convention in 1922 was looked upon with favor and in keeping with the general policy of the organization in selecting the most prominent section of the state each year. In this way the organization hopes to attract teachers and those interested in music in each section of the state and increase the membership of the organization. One of the most important matters decided upon at the convention was the plan to continue the "Music Teacher," the official organ of the association, which was discontinued some time ago on account of high price of paper and general increased costs.

Edited by Prof. Gordon.

The paper is edited by Prof. E. G. Gordon, extension division of the University of Wisconsin. Prof. Gordon was authorized to select a committee to outline a plan for the continuation of the paper in a practicable basis!

MARKET BASKET

Nothing different in the line of fruits or vegetables has appeared in the local stores for this weekend, and few price reductions are seen. As the time draws closer to the end of the month, more and more fruits and vegetables become better each week and can be purchased for 45, 40 or 45 cents per quart. It will be some weeks yet before home grown ones will arrive.

Other spring fruit coming into season is fresh pineapple, selling at 25 and 30 cents each. Apples are always in season, sold by the pound, for 14 and 15 cents, while apples will be, of course, best in the fall, still good, the fancy eating apples selling for 20 and 22 cents per pound and the cooking apples for 7.

Wax beans make a good side dish for the Sunday dinner, and a pound, costing 20 and 25 cents, will serve several generous helpings. Asparagus, rhubarb, spinach, turnips or carrots, etc., are also used by many for side dishes and are all in prime condition now. Asparagus sells for 20 or 22 cents a bunch, rhubarb at 8 cents a pound, spinach at 16 cents a pound, turnips for 25 cents, tomatoes at 25 and 30 cents a pound, and carrots at 10 and 13 cents a bunch.

Home grown onions sell for 10 and 15 cents a bunch. The large cucumbers range in price from 15 to 25 cents, while the price of head lettuce also varies in different places from 15 to 22 cents per head. Leaf lettuce sells for 7 cents a bunch or 40 cents a pound. Cabbage is 6 and 7 cents per pound and vegetable oysters are 10 cents. New potatoes are being harvested by many people and sell for 12 cents per pound. Eggplants are sold in price of 25 cents, now selling for 22 and 25 cents, and butter has also reduced, now being 34 and 39 cents per pound. Men and fish prices remain the same as last week.

FARNIERS' Phone Strike Continues

Residents of the town of Turtle are opposing the increase of rates for the Beloit Telephone line operated by the Wisconsin company in Beloit through a cooperation switching schedule are still holding their own in a campaign to resist paying $2.7 a year for telephone service.

More than 50 attended a meeting opened after the meeting as to why the over-hauling and painting bill was surrounded with mystery.

Mayor Welsh then went on to tell of the thousands of dollars he has sacrificed in order to be mayor and pointed out that for the past three years his cars have been at the disposal of the city. During his one year as alderman, he said, expenses were at the disposal of the Mayor and the aldermen and when he became mayor he continued to offer the use of his machines. He told of the numerous trips made out of the city by himself, the city attorney and aldermen on official city business; of his car's activities in covering the county in Liberty bond drives; and of running at the head of every parade held here the past three years.

"It is indicated to him,

"I don't feel indebted to the city," he explained. "The city is indebted to me. I have no apologies to make because everything has been done legally. Here the mayor made a personal attack on the Gazette."

He went on to tell that his Cadillac is practically like new today. Following is a list of the old council members and the new council members.

A committee, composed of W. J. Latshaw, J. W. Westby, E. E. Gatzl, L. Van Gilder and C. Maxword, was elected to meet in conference with the officers of the council and attempt an adjustment. The farm subscribers, stoutest in their demands, will boycott the company and have all the telephones removed unless rates are materially reduced.

Subscribers declared that during the state commission hearing the officers of the operating company declared they would have to close business and turn the line over to the telephone company. This was not granted. With the increase granted, farmers declare the officers are still anxious to remain in charge of the company.

"Clean Fronts of Store Buildings, Rotarians Urge

"Clean the fronts of business buildings and make Milwaukee street look like a main street, a strong suggestion made by members of the program for the Chamber of Commerce to follow up its reorganization. Other cards by Rotarians returned to John R. McNeel, director of the campaign now being formulated to revitalize the Chamber, advocated.

Revision in the method of parking of motor cars on Milwaukee street, better traffic regulations, repair and repave the main business street.

They also desire better school buildings; development of the city plan; additional public parks; playgrounds with proper supervision; cooperation with farmers; better main roads leading into the city; additional hotel facilities.

The way to get these things according to the Rotarians, is through a spirit of cooperation and getting along among the citizens of the city. In line with the Rotarian slogan of "The friendliest who serves best," the organization urges all persons in the city to work together for common aims.

Bad Luck and the Devil Pursued Him

"I don't think any one has had more bad luck and sickness than I have. In 1905 I had two ribs, an arm and collar bone broken in a railroad accident. Then I had pneumonia. After recovering I entered a pasture when a bull charged and took a bite over the fence and broke my right leg. In 1910 I had typhoid fever since then I've had stomach and liver trouble, which no medicine or doctor touched until two years ago. I got a bottle of May's Wonderful Remedy, which proved the first ray of light in thirteen years." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes gastrically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince any money refunding people's Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

MOVIES DISCUSSED BY WOMEN'S LEAGUE

Some of the problems connected with new legislation were taken up at a meeting of the Janesville League of Women Voters, Thursday afternoon at the library. "State Censorship of the Movies" was taken up by Mrs. O. W. Ator, the "Future of the Movie," by Mrs. Alice Heins, and the "Means of Instruction," by Mrs. Frank Crook. Mrs. George Munger was made chairman of the committee of women in industry. Mrs. C. J. Bates is chairman of the league. The study of the Smith-Towner bill and the Shepard-Towner bill will constitute the program of the next meeting.

Public School Children Give Musical Recital

The recital by public school children under the direction of the school music director, Miss Florence E. Miller, was followed by the singing numbers given by the Boys' Glee club. "Stolen Wings," as sung by Miss Mary Ryan, was an enjoyable number, and showed the singer's voice to advantage. The singing also was the piano solo by Miss Katherine Keeling. Miss Leona Castorf directed the eighth grade choir, given here several weeks ago and which proved to be the most popular of the year.

Flowers are the common expression of love. White ones are given to honor those who have passed into the great beyond. Those of any color in town to the living, or to the dead, were started six years ago. Carnations then were the proper flower, but the demand became so great that the custom now permits the wearing or sending of any kind.

We want the public to know that we serve the best of everything, which has been proven by the increase in our business, and do not in anyway cut the quality of our goods.

DISARMING A NATION.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—A measure which would make it difficult for any citizen of the United States to obtain a revolver or pistol without breaking the law is now proposed by Senator Shields of Tennessee as a remedy for the crime wave.

It is agreed by all that something must be done. The country is overrun by armed thugs who shoot down a few hundred citizens every day, take their cash and jewelry, and escape in four-thousand-dollar cars which they have stolen from other citizens without much trouble.

Senator Shields believes that the way to remedy this situation is to make it as difficult as possible for any one to obtain a revolver, pistol or other firearm small enough to be concealed about the person, and he has introduced a bill which is to accomplish this by barring such arms from interstate commerce. The stated purpose of the bill is "to suppress the sale of pistols, revolvers" etcetera—that is, to make it as difficult as possible for any one, criminal or otherwise—to obtain such an arm.

This bill has provoked sharp discussion. Many legislators favor it. On the other hand, students of the crime problem say that it will be wholly ineffective. Some critics of the measure say that it is typical of a whole school of legislation in this country, designed to suppress vice and crime, and which has the opposite effect.

Senator Shields says that his measure is modeled after the prohibition law. Prohibition, he says, was ineffective as a state or local measure as long as liquor could be manufactured in neighboring states and shipped into dry territory. In like manner, he says, the efforts of police to control the sale of firearms in a given city are futile as long as any criminal can send away and get a revolver by mail or express.

His opponents say that his whole theory is unsound. They agree with him that his law is of exactly the same type as the prohibition law, and they assert that, while prohibition has reduced the consumption of alcohol, which may be a good thing, it has not prevented any man who really wants alcohol from getting it. He can get it from bootleggers. Furthermore, here in Washington, one of the most orderly of cities, he can buy a slightly medicated port wine containing 18 per cent of alcohol at many small stores, and he can buy all the materials for making home brew at several places, together with all directions for making. The effect of this law, they contend, has been to restrict the consumption by making it inconvenient to obtain alcoholic beverages, but it has not made it impossible for the man with an abnormal alcohol thirst to satisfy it.

In like manner, they say, the gun-prohibition law will greatly reduce the number of persons owning weapons by making it difficult to obtain them, but it will never prevent the man who really needs one from getting it. There will inevitably be bootlegging in guns, just as there is now bootlegging in whiskey. A whole new class of criminals who engage in this traffic will be created, just as liquor prohibition has created a class of criminals. And the tax-payer will be saddled with another burden of expense in the effort to enforce this law. It will deprive the peaceful citizen, but it will never prevent the criminal, who needs the gun in his business, from getting one. He is used to getting things by theft and craft. He is well acquainted in the underworld. He will get a gun under gun prohibition just as easily as he gets liquor under liquor prohibition. The law-abiding citizen will be disarmed by such legislation, but not the profession of gunsmen.

Take, for example, they say, a group of 100 citizens. Perhaps 50 or more of these never thought of owning a gun. Perhaps about 30 of them have purchased guns which they keep in bureau drawers for personal protection. Many a burglar and highwayman has been foiled by an armed citizen. The keeping of arms in the house for self-protection is a recognized and valuable aid in the suppression of crime. If there were a loaded revolver in every bed room in the country, with a person who had been properly trained in the use of it, burglary would be greatly discouraged.

In this 100 men there are perhaps 10 who own revolvers as means of protection. They are members of target-shooting clubs which encourage civilian practice with small arms, or they are men who make camping trips in wild country and carry side arms with them.

Not more than three, probably, of this 100 men are criminals. Now the effect of a law like the Shields bill, say its opponents, is to disarm this entire 100 men in the hope of disarming the three criminal members. The 30 who would otherwise buy revolvers for self-defense will be discouraged from doing so by the expense and risk of prosecution. Then men who use their weapons as means of recreation, and who are valuable for their skill in case of war, will be more reluctant to give up, but they too are law-abiding men and do not like to follow a hobby which involves contempt of law.

The only men of the hundred who will completely and steadily disregard the law are the three criminals. They habitually disregard law anyway. They are experts in breaking it. Their lives depend upon the ownership of guns. It is almost certain that they will succeed in obtaining them. And they will be bolder in the use of their weapons as means of recreation, and who are valuable for their skill in case of war, will be more reluctant to give up, but they too are law-abiding men and do not like to follow a hobby which involves contempt of law.

These men argue that the way to prevent the abuse of any privilege or right is not to take it away from everybody, but to take it away from the man who abuses it—not to deprive the 97 law-abiding citizens of their rights, but to make it hot for the three crooks.

This is not being done, they say. Our police systems have come in for so much criticism lately that it is hardly necessary to repeat any of it. Unsolved murders and their mysteries are the order of the day. Our criminal law is a notorious farce. The statement is made by high authorities that a man is seldom convicted of murder in this country if he has plenty of money, or a political pull. The way to stop murder is to catch and punish the murderers, and the way to disarm criminals is to catch them and take their arms away from them, argue these opponents of the prohibitory principle.

If there is to be any federal legislation-bearing on the crime wave, these men say, it should have for its purpose the creation of a Federal police bureau. This is badly needed as a clearing house for information about criminals, to raise the standards of police work in America and to study European police methods with a view to introducing them in this country.

FORGETFUL PA.

My Pa says that he used to be a bright boy in geography. An' when he went to school he knew the rivers an' the mountains, too. An' all the capitals of states. An' bound in lines in the dates they joined the states. But last night I asked him if he would explain. I asked him if he would explain the leading industries of Maine. He thought an' thought an' thought a lot. An' said, "I know, but I've forgot."

My Pa says when he was in school he got a hundred as a rule. An' grammar was a topic he knew. He could read and write. He learned his tenses mighty fast. An' every term he always passed. An' had good marks, an' teachers said:

"That youngster surely has a head." But just the same I notice now. Most every time I ask him how to find the common multiple. He says, "That's easy, you just multiply one number by the other." Once I asked him to add up on the spot. "Sometime, sonny, I've forgot." I'm tellin' you just what is what. My Pa's forgot an awful lot!

My lady-wedded sh'd never believe the spoken word of mortal man.

That man speaks mainly to defective.

The guiltless maiden—if he can.

"But then," quoth she, "what man may write this has been considered more or less?"

Thus, when it's down in black and white,

He must have meant it, that's her guess.

Wherefore I din this heart in ink.

To tell my love, if she'll permit.

Now don she doubt me, do you think,

When here she is so plainly writ?

(Who's Who Today)

DR. DAVID JAYNE HILL.

The name of David Jayne Hill, former Ambassador to Germany, is linked with the vagrant ambassadorial post at Tokio. Reports that President Harding has actually selected Dr. Hill as ambassador to Japan have not been confirmed, however.

For some time the name of Dr. Hill has been mentioned in discussions and speculations regarding diplomatic appointments. The feeling is quite generally expressed that the former Ambassador will be given the diplomatic appointment of the highest importance.

The importance of filling the vacancy at Tokio is realized in official circles. President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes are known to desire the appointment to this post of a man of high standing and experience in diplomacy. Whether Dr. Hill is regarded as the best material in sight for this position has not been disclosed in any authoritative quarter here.

David Jayne Hill was born in Plainfield, N. J., June 10, 1880. He studied at Bucknell University and later received degrees at Paris University, Berlin University, Colgate University of Pennsylvania and other institutions. He was president of the University of Rochester from 1888 to 1895 and then spent three years studying law in Europe. He was professor of European diplomacy in the school of comparative politics and international law at Washington for five years. He was assistant secretary of state from 1895 to 1903 and envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the U. S. to Switzerland from 1903 to 1905, then to the Netherlands for two years. Next he served as ambassador extraordinary to Germany. He was a delegate to the second peace conference at the Hague in 1907.

He is a member of law, philosophical and political societies, and is the author of several books.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

May as a Publicity Expert.

In his effort to "humanize the post office" Will H. May did a very logical think the other day when he went to the cabinet meeting and chided his fellow members for holding all their mail until late afternoon. He pointed out that a great peak load is imposed on the Washington office every working day.

He suggested a compromise from all of the cabinet heads and the President to get some of their mail off in the morning.

With that done, the Government can come before the country with clean hands and ask business to do likewise. Moreover by beginning reform at home, Mr. May did one of those little stunts which shows that he knows how to get his ideas into the channels of publicity. A formal appeal to the country to get the post office early in the morning would have been nothing but a formal appeal in a wilderness of official appeals. With all the power of the Government behind him he could not shout loud enough to make the country hear his request. But by gently rapping the President and the Cabinet over the knuckles, Mr. May made a story which traveled to the ends of the country and interested everybody. It was a good bit of work and makes a good beginning in an effort to improve the postal service.—Detroit Free Press.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

May 6, 1881.—Action was taken by the council several weeks ago, making the property owner liable for all defects on his sidewalk, thus exempting the city from responsibility but Adams Stelly is now suing the city for damages he received from the defective sidewalk near Spooner White's residence. Judge Conger in supreme court recently ruled that an amendment of this kind was unconstitutional.

THIRTY-ONE YEARS AGO

May 6, 1890.—The council held its regular meeting with the new members present last night in the city hall. It was decided to boost the liquor license fee from $200 to $400. The bill was passed without any trouble and will become effective July first. No other business of importance was taken up. The board of education held their monthly meeting last night but no action was taken in any of the matters.

VITAMINS AND FOOD FALLACIES

Scurvy is a mystery to the laity because the fully developed disease is not commonly seen in this country, though mild forms of scurvy are perhaps much more common than scurvy in general. The fully developed disease in infants or adults is characterized by bleeding from the gums, sore swollen gums, foul breath, bleeding beneath the skin or mucous membranes from slight or no local cause (discolorations of the "black and blue" kind, sometimes wrongly ascribed to blows or abuse), pale complexion, a painful joint or pains in the joints, diarrhea, constipation, etc. But this half-fed scurvy is not the ordinary everyday scurvy, which is too easily overlooked or unrecognized. The more common form is not so clearly manifested; there is lack of physical and mental vigor, vague pains usually ascribed to "rheumatism" (although there is no actual disease), lack of appetite, indigestion, a noticeably pale or yellow complexion and stationary weight and frigidity; disposition.

Pasteurization more completely destroys the vitamins of fresh milk than does boiling for a few minutes, because the 20 minutes or 30 minutes of heating at 145° F. induces some change which five minutes or less of heating at 31° F. does not produce.

It is fallacy to assume that foods which contain vitamins when fresh lose their vitamins in the process of canning. Many canned foods are deficient of vitamins, but canned foods of an acid nature, such as orange juice, tomato juice, fresh cooked vegetables, etc., are probably as good as fresh raw milk.

ANSWER.—Braces, splints, or supports of any kind should never be worn except under the personal supervision of your own physician. Great harm is done by such ill-advised resort to surgical appliances. It should be clearly understood that braces, splints, or casts, etc., are temporary weak or undeveloped muscles, and often mutes the defective muscles weaker by preventing their proper function.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Tim imitated the elaborate bath ritual with shaded light on the tea table; it cast a soft glow over the couch, but in spite of his sudden mania for red, Mrs. Brennan had her direct rays fall only on the table. Tim sat down beside her on the couch, where she piled up the cushions behind her—as she had seen Emily do. "This is nicer than parties, isn't it?" she asked.

"Yes. I can't stay awake at my desk after one of those all-night affairs," Tim answered. "I'll go home early tonight."

They talked of Markettown after a little, while carefully avoided Ruth's name. Not that she thought the mention of it would make Tim lonely; she could not have told what subtle reason made her keep away from all talk of her chum.

Tim appeared was homesick; and he hated big ugly little rooms like the boarding house. He was used to home comforts and a mother's smiling.

Myra was much prettier than Emily, really, she knew, though she had not the curious manner, the self-assurance of her cousin. She gave one shoulder a little lift—Emily did that—it was extraordinarily becoming.

The gown was much too low in front, and practically invisible of a back, but Myra liked that. She admired the soft contours of her arms and the plastic lines of her shoulders in back. She was much prettier than Emily, really, she knew, though she had not the curious manner, the self-assurance of her cousin. She gave one shoulder a little lift—Emily did that—it was extraordinarily becoming.

Tim joined them after dinner, and so did Gabrielle Carter, a brilliant blonde, daughter of an Italian mother and a Spanish father—a woman who had come into the city from some unknown place, and who maintained a maid, a lot of very lovely clothes, and her good name, all at the same time—"fond," Cousin Emily remarked, "that only Gabrielle could perform, and only in New York city." She's too beautiful to be thought respectable abroad, and too well dressed to be thought anything else in this town.

All of which Myra did not understand. But she was to know Gabrielle better later on.

Myra found a strange change going on in the Gold Room, at one of the best hotels that was not only decorated with gilt paint, but that was further decorated with arabesques, and ornaments, and with any number of glittering little mirrors. Myra thought the last word in elegance, especially the chairs done in red and black velvet.

Tim was handsome, she thought. His hair was quite long and that made him look artistic. Myra did not know that Tim had not the price of a hair cut, so it was economy rather than artistry that made his hair this length. Tim danced well, too, being quick to pick up new steps.

"Is that fellow with your cousin crazy about you?" he asked.

"No," Myra answered, her tone implying that she did not believe what she was saying.

"He gets it!" Tim answered. Myra thought his arm went round her more tightly. "Was he jealous?"

This was a new thought, a delicate one. Emily often played the man against the other, in such subtle fashion that neither of them knew she was laughing at them behind her hazily smiling face. Myra thought she might, for that game, too, Emily got such fun out of it.

But she wanted Tim alone! Tim never came downstairs to call, he was at his work. And in the evening, she went out if Emily did, and stayed in if she stayed.

"I've such a headache, let's go home," she said as the dance ended. And they did, excusing themselves from the others who were out now for a long party.

Once in the apartment, Myra forgot her headache. She adjusted the little Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, In Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl welfare. Of course it does not interest me to tell you all about myself, but I am a good girl and am used to deliberately oppose them and go to the show with some boy.

My advice is to obey your parents as well as you know how. When they see that you are earnestly trying to please them they will soften toward you and will grant you the freedom that your sister has.

Never forget that when a girl places her importance on her self-respect and is cheap she is throwing mud at herself. You can go wherever she pleases without asking. Do you think that your parents are treating me right? MISS D. S.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been out of town visiting for about three weeks and when I came home I broke my engagement to a man whom I have been betrothed to. I met a carpetal before he got his name from his habit of feeding upon the bay berries or Myrtle berries as some call them. Find a place where there are enough of these berries to last through the winter and a flock will remain near them right through January, February and February birds even far north as New York. During the winter months the Florida Peninsula is fairly overrun with them.

Like the rest of the family, they are insectivorous and help out a warm nest of grubs and insect eggs in the

TRIED RECIPES

Cheese Muffins. Mix and sift together two cups of flour, four teaspoons of salt and a few dashes of paprika. Beat one egg lightly and add one cup of milk. Add two tablespoons of melted butter. Combine the liquid with the dry ingredients, beat well and fold in two tablespoons of grated cheese. Turn into oiled muffin pans, add a sprinkling of cheese over each and bake in a moderate hot oven for 20 minutes.

Hot Spice Cake. Crumble together three tablespoons of softened shortening and two and one-half cups of brown sugar; add half a teaspoon of powdered cinnamon, half a teaspoon each of ground ginger and cinnamon, a quarter of a teaspoon each of ground mace, cloves and allspice. Stir in one small cup of molasses, one teaspoon and a quarter of baking soda dissolved in a cup of sour milk and add enough sifted flour mixed with a quarter of a teaspoon of salt to make a good batter. Pour into an oiled pan and bake in a moderate oven for 35 minutes.

Dainty Salads. Combination, Fruit Salad—Remove one section of the banana, slice it, scoop out the pulp. Mix with shredded orange or grapefruit seeds and peeled nuts. Stewed onions may be added if desired. Mix with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce in the banana skins.

Stuffed Tomato Salad. Stuffed tomato shells with chopped celery and nuts, which may be mixed with salad dressing, and serve on lettuce.

TINTS.

If your shoe polish becomes hard in the sun, do not moisten with water, but with milk; it will improve the polish. If silver is to be stored away for some time pack it with dry flour; it will remain unvarnished.

A pinch of soda added to the securing brick will clean knives more readily than the drab algae.

To Wash Ring. Cut on a partition table top and a bar of soap, and boil until dissolved in two quarts of water. Put half in a tub with boiling water or very hot water, to make a good sud; half fill tub with warm water and put in rings. Let soak a couple of hours. Soak rings up and down or pound with a wooden mallet. Put the remaining rings in another tub not rings, and let stand a couple of hours, bound occasionally and soak up and down. Rinse in three waters and hang up dripping. This solution is good for curtains, and curtains can be hung on rod at wide windows so they can be stretched and a curtain pole run in the bottom hem.

Painted Woodwork—Should be washed with tepid water and white soap, only rub with ammonia where there are黛黛 stains of smoke, etc. It takes off the gloss. Clean small sections at a time and wipe with a dry cloth.

tain young man whom I care for considerably and when I came home I wrote him a note of thanks. My relatives live in that town and I feel sure he knows my brother has been broken. I care for his company very much, and so please tell me what to do.

Is it proper to keep all the gifts I have received for my engagement?

BLACK EYES.

Since you have written a note to the young man you have done all you can if he is interested in you he will follow up the note.

Send back the gifts of value such as jewelry.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a man.

40 and was engaged to a lady of 21. I loved her as much as a person could and I know she did the same. When we said we would get married I bought everything and was ready to go to the housekeeping. When the time came the girl's mother made the girl leave town. She also told her to write to me. I do not know what to do and so please advise me.

JOHN.

There is only one thing a person can do who has suffered bitter disappointment and that is to make a brand new start and hope for a more kindly future. Perhaps you can use the things you have bought to fit out an apartment and then rent it furnished. Or you may be able to return many of the things under the circumstances. Time and the fates will tell.

ANSWER TO INQUIRIES

"Brunette"—Certainly, if he is a good boy and your mother has no objection, answer his letter and say you are a conveniently good match.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man who is too young to walk with the boys occasionally, providing occasionally doesn't mean too often or always with the same boy. You must send a stamped and self-addressed envelope for a reply to your other questions.

"An Interested Reader"—Your uncle is quite right to object to your talking constantly and at length over the telephone to girls. You do not know the girl ought to be ashamed of themselves. This is the gentlemanly way to do it.

MYRTLE WARBLER.

Size—Slightly larger than a House Wren.

Plumage—General effect: (male) bluish gray with yellow patches on crown, rump and sides; (female) more brownish with yellow on breast with yellow patches. Underparts white with yellow patches. Tail dark gray with white tips and sides more or less streaked with black.

This plumage is not completed until April or early May. (In fall). This plumage is not completed until April or early May. (In fall).

Song—Breeds from Labrador and south to upper New England and northern Ontario. Sometimes breeds locally further south along the Atlantic seaboard. Winters in Mexico, Central America, Panama and the southern half of the United States, localities as far north as New Jersey and on occasions to the Gulf Coast. MIGRATION.—While breeding through the great plains of the west, apparently shuns the western slope of the Rockies, but remains obscure yellow patches on crown and tail.

These are the distinguishing marks of the little Myrtle Warbler, one of the prettiest members of his family and the only one of all the wood warblers that sometimes spends the winter months throughout the States and becomes friendly enough to feed at the back door with Junco and Tree Sparrow.

EASTERN.—Breeds from these yellow patches during this winter visit because by then he has donned a traveling jacket of brown and only the yellow patch on the rump remains as a tell-tale mark.

INDIANS TO GATHER IN PRAIRIE DU CHIEN

Thousands Redskins Expected at Centenary Celebration
This Summer.

Muskogee, Okla.—Indians and officials of the Five "Civilized" Tribes, which includes nearly a third of all Indians in the United States, will play a leading part in the American Indian centenary to be held this summer in Prairie du Chien, Wis.

A delegation from the Wisconsin town and an agent of the Indian tribes of the north, preparing tentative plans for the centenary, has been in consultation with officers and chiefs of the tribes in Oklahoma, regarding the exhibition to be played by Oklahoma Indians that will resemble a world's fair.

A participant, selected Indian opens with other spectators an exhibition of Indian art and industry and similar exhibits and entertainment features have been arranged under preliminary plans announced by J. L. Hinrod, business manager of the Tribes. Every tribe in North America will be represented among the 1,000 Indians planning to start in the centenary, Mr. Hinrod said.

Mr. Hinrod also visits Mexico and consults with President Obregon regarding Mexican Indians participating in the festivities.

The centenary will cover a month's time, according to plans. August 10 to September 10 are the dates that have been tentatively agreed upon.

MATHESON TELLS WHY HE OPPOSES WOMEN AS JURORS

Women are definitely barred from jury service in Wisconsin, and Janesville women will not have to worry about such matters as who is going to care for the baby, prepare hubby's dinner while she is up in the court room listening to legal orations why John Doe et al. should be given $20,000 damages for being swindled out of his due and just share of the world's supply of sunshines.

One of the assemblymen who opposed granting women the right or privilege of jury service through the enacting of special legislation was Alexander E. Matheson, Janesville. The Janesville assemblyman held that jury service would not necessarily emancipate women.

"I would rather trust the judgment of a jury composed of women than of men," said Assemblyman Matheson. "Let us not place women on the same plane as men we are sterile. The high plane women have always enjoyed. It can only result in treating women with less consideration and that is a great mistake."

The vote in the assembly stood 60 to 24 with Rock county members voting against concurrence of the Conant bill.

So hereafter more men only will hear the court matters coming up in Wisconsin.

ANOTHER SUIT

In addition to the $425 action started by W. J. Hill against his son-in-law, Harry Taylor, another suit against Taylor has been commenced in municipal court by the Janesville Wholesale Grocery company. It is set for trial May 26.

ROBBED A STORE, MAKE CONFESSION

Evansville

Mrs. L. F. Miller, Phone 200-J.
Correspondent.

Three Elkhorn Yeggs Confess to Another Crime in State.

[Special to the Gazette]
Elkhorn—Latest developments in the robbery and subsequent capture here of four supposed bandits who robbed two Elkhorn stores in April, is that three of the quartet, Weaver, Jewel and Burns, are reported to have confessed that they robbed a drug store at Wisconsin Rapids in April before the Elkhorn robbery was committed, amounting with $300 in cash and a quantity of merchandise. It is claimed that Weaver once worked in the drug store which was robbed and knew the combination of the safe. Going from Milwaukee to Wisconsin Rapids, the three made an easy entrance into the place and returned to Milwaukee with their loot without being detected.

Planned Big Robbery.

La Claire, the fourth man, who pleaded guilty to July two of the seven counts against him, is not implicated in the Wisconsin Rapids robbery, according to the alleged confession. Confession has been made that the plans of the quartet in the Elkhorn robbery originated by the coolness of Miss Mary Rosenthaler, a school teacher, in notifying the sheriff were to return to the State Garage and carry away more tires. When caught there was approximately $500 worth of tires in the car. It is claimed that they were also going to hold up a certain citizen of the town who is in the habit of carrying large sums of money on his person.

Cause in Court Monday.

Jewell and Weaver have pleaded guilty to all seven counts against them. La Claire, to try and Burns pleads not guilty. They will be brought to trial next Monday when interesting developments are expected. Apparently Burns and La Claire are pinning their hopes on a sympathetic jury for a lighter sentence than they would receive were they to plead guilty to all the charges. In the event that they do not change their plea, it is believed that Jewell and Weaver will be used to testify against them. All are in full awaiting trial.

Investigate Bridge Loss.
The village board of Goron Junction has decided to build a temporary bridge in place of the one recently destroyed by the heavy rain and flood. A permanent bridge will cost approximately $8,000, and the question arises as to the liability of the Borden company, owners of the dam, in the matter. It is believed that had the gates in the dam been opened and reasonable precautions taken the dam would not have given way and the bridge would not have escaped injury. It is being investigated.

Apply for Licenses.
The following have applied to the county clerk for marriage licenses: John H. Madison, Lake Geneva, and Jennie C. Lendellus, Spokane, Wash. Roy F. West, Madison, and Frances J. Stevens, Delavan; Francis A. Moss and Alma E. Netterheim, La Fayette.

Dallas, Tex.—W. A. Ebb, general manager of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway company, and several other high operating officials of the company resigned.

Summer Frocks of Cotton Are Here!

In a Galaxy of Bewitching Styles All Moderately Priced

Summer with all its delightful activities will seem a good many steps nearer as you examine and try the bewitching modes in the Maytime collection of cotton frocks. They are all so charmingly youthful in styling, so beautiful in coloring and fabric that every one in search of appropriate wearables to appear in at parties or on the beach of a summer morning will find it remarkably easy to make pleasing selections. Frocks of sheerest organdy, voile and dotted Swiss come in for a wonderful lot of favor through their piquantly bouffant silhouettes which are achieved with tunics, scalloped and befrilled, or by bias shirred very full. Much hand hemstitching and innumerable bias folds of self material embellish the slimmer modes.

Fair from ordinary are the new Gingham Frocks of Summer with their pretty plaid, checked and striped patterns. It isn't hard to imagine oneself wearing them on the porch or to market for their attractive, neat styling makes them ultra becoming. Tunics, panels and surplice bodices are distinguishing style details but what you will probably be most delighted with are the organdy collars, cuffs and sashes which give them such a festive air.

Plaid and More Plaid Is the Verdict In Skirts.

Some of the models are straight and slender while others are circular in cut or enchantingly pleated. You will surely like them all.

MANY THINGS FOR JANESEVILLE TO DO

Club Members Have Long List of Jobs for Chamber of Commerce.

In the educational program of the Chamber of Commerce during the three weeks of the membership campaign and the desire that every citizen of Janesville shall know that the organization belongs to him and that his or her voice in the organization is as potent as anyone's, the speakers at the various club meetings and before the secret societies and other active groups are asking for aid in determining a program for the future.

What shall the Chamber of Commerce discuss and act upon?

Many Suggestions Made.

The answers are many and show almost a universal-minded opinion on some points. To begin all the rest the questions of parks and playgrounds, simple and satisfactory. Next comes the question of parking on Milwaukee Avenue. Almost universal is the demand for the building of the viaduct. A score or more place the greatest emphasis on the need for community house—an auditorium and a place where all little events and convocations can be held. Janesville has no adequate accommodations for such a program. The Gazette carries it at the head of its editorial page as part of its platform.

Here are a number of things most of which have more than one advocate:

Here are Many Things to Do. Clear river banks; appoint a policewoman right now; improve the police system; improve the unimproved streets; give better lighting; enforce the dry law; reduce rents; give Janesville better housing conditions. Make the landlords clean up inside as well as the people on the outside; central place for the care of children while people are shopping, especially for outside visitors; better traffic rules and traffic policemen; lower retail prices; work for the benefit of the city as a whole and for our business men; establish an auto club; revise auto driving laws; get the master plumbers to stop knocking each other; advertise Janesville; establish a freight bureau; build an up-to-the-minute hotel; additional parks; tourist camps; get labor and employer together; establish a competent electric bureau; hurry the concrete bridge; have a public market; regulate the speed of street cars.

Better Looking City.

And then there are a number who want better looking down town business section by paving main street, repairing Milwaukee street, cleaning up and repairing the business blocks. Other recommendations for the whole city are work for the whole city, get together in one unit; establish a strong credit and loan association; better highways into city; cooperate with farmers; combat the idea that "things are good enough"; get additional bathing beaches; improve school buildings and get behind the best school system; promote the spirit of good will and cooperation among business men; protect legitimate dealers; look into and correct the express situation in Janesville; start the city plan; improve the service of the Almeling Point division of the Milwaukee road.

What do You Think?

Then there are many others. Every person in the city is invited to suggest something worth while. If one does not belong to a club or a lodge send the topic to the Gazette. It will be printed in the Voice of the People. What can the Chamber of Commerce do for the city; what can it do for you; what will you do for the Chamber?

WOMEN AS ALIVE

TO NEED AS ARE MEN

The response of the Eastern Star group Wednesday afternoon indicates that the women of Janesville are alive to the need for a chamber of commerce as are the men.

Following the meeting Wednesday, John R. Kneebone, campaign director of the chamber members' expansion, stated that if all the suffrage displayed as intelligent an interest in the problems confronting the community as the study group there would be little doubt but that the Chamber of Commerce would have the concerted support of the entire city.

Prominent among the suggestions advanced by the women were improved police system, police woman, better lighting in the residence districts, railroad viaducts, traffic regulation on Milwaukee street, community house support, Y. W. C. A., community day nursery, street improvements.

Mr. Kneebone states that the interesting point about the suggestions received from the various clubs to date is their unanimity. This will make it much simpler for the Chamber to adopt a program which will have the united support of the city.

Yanks in Army on Klune

Have Lots of Hard Work

Cobblers—If Americans at home imagine that the life of the soldier composing the American army of occupation on the Rhine is one of idleness they will be a long way from the truth. The little fighting force of 10,000 men has to be kept "hard" trained and ready for quick actions, and that means work—eight hours of it a day at drill, study, target practice or maneuvers, for it is the purpose of the General Staff here to maintain union hours.

U. S. WILL SEND ENVOY TO COUNCIL

Invitation of Allies Favored as Means of First Hand
Information.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington.—The United States government probably will accept the invitation of the allies to send a representative to the meetings of the supreme council. The inclination is to have an unofficial observer present who will be able to act as a means of communication directly between the allies as a group and the United States and at the same time inform the Washington government of exactly what occurs.

The invitation itself has not yet been acted upon but the tendency is to regard it as a favorable opportunity for a closer contact with European affairs. The advantages of having an American representative sit in the allied council's council to folks here because there are so many questions arising on which the United States government desires to be informed and it is not always possible to conserve American interests when American diplomats must seek verification of important happenings through second hand sources of information.

In view of the position here concerning American foreign policy and particularly the extent of American participation in European affairs under the Versailles treaty, any American representative sitting in the meetings of the supreme council would have limited powers. He would be unable to take action without the explicit instruction of the president and secretary of state. The govern-wilson administration for a long time maintained no unofficial observer at all such conferences and withdrew representation on the ground that the Harding administration should be free to decide for itself whether participation in allied councils should be continued.

Invitation Meets Favor.

The advantages of having an American representative sit in the allied council's council to folks here because there are so many questions arising on which the United States government desires to be informed and it is not always possible to conserve American interests when American diplomats must seek verification of important happenings through second hand sources of information.

Broadly speaking, the desire of the allies to have America with them in consolidating questions of vital interest to all nations is reciprocally felt here. In other words, the disposition is to look upon the allied invitation as a means of consolidating the principal and associated powers into a family council and minimize the chances of friction between the United States and its associates in the world.

There have been reports that the American government would delay sending a representative to the supreme council until the principles involved in the Yalta mandate controversy were fully accepted by the allies. Inquiry in responsible quarters here gives the information that the United States will probably stand in the center of the Yalta controversy and it is advisable to consider the broad interests of the world rather than her own special interests in a particular controversy.

Yalta Works Out O. K.

In other words, it is felt that a favorable determination of the Yalta controversy is actually in progress and that the report of the principles is of such vital importance to the economic prosperity of the world that America can not afford to insist that the Yalta significance that members of the so-called "irreconcilable" group in the senate are watching with some degree of uneasiness the tendency of the Harding administration to take a broad world view of pending problems rather than to follow a strictly nationalistic or isolated policy.

With the slogan, "Three cents will save a life for a day," efforts will be made to sell a card of 10 stamps to every adult in the city. Mrs. George Jacobs of the city has chosen to take charge of the work.

Two methods will be followed for the Near East work, the money for which goes to the support of war orphans in American hospitals. Coupon books will be sold in all lodges and clubs, with Miss Mary Monat in charge of the work.

A "Say It With Flour" drive will be started. Arrangements are being made with local grocers to receive orders for flour which will then be shipped directly from New York.

Posters on this work will be placed in all churches and banks. Miss Neel will be in charge of a committee of women to thoroughly put this plan into effect. Ten places have already agreed to become collecting stations.
